Make a simple friendship bracelet for yourself or one to share with a friend!

Materials:

Yarn, string, or embroidery floss
Scissors
Ruler
Tape

1 - Pick your colors of yarn. You can use multiple strands of the same color if you only have one color of string, or if you want your bracelet to only be one color.

2 - Cut about two feet of each color. Small children can use a little less, while adults may want a couple of extra inches.

3 - Place the strands together and tape one end of the set of strands to a firm surface.

4 - Hold the other end of the strands and twist them together until the whole string is tightly twisted.

5 - Continue to hold the end together while you grab the center of the string. Bring the loose end of the string that you've been holding to the taped end, folding the string in half.

6 - When you let go of the middle the string will twist itself together.

7 - Remove the tape and tie the ends together, so that the new string won't unravel.

8 - Then tie the twisted string on your wrist to wear it as a bracelet!
